Tani and Ken,

The mechanics are still on-site assisting with our immediate need to get the robots up and running. It's this immediate response that requires an emergency purchase approval from Tani. Until they are finished we won't have the cost. It will be for their time and an emergency part that they had on-hand at their shop. We should know the details by Friday.

Susan is working with procurement on sole source for on-going issues and also the two conversion kits that would update our sensor so this doesn't happen in the future. Overall, the robots are in very good shape. However, it's like having a car with low mileage...when something goes out it's a little difficult to find parts!

I will be in the SRC hearings most of tomorrow but will keep everyone updated.

Ken W.

Susan and Blake,

For your records here's the emergency approval from Tani for the Automated Storage and Retrieval System.

Ken perfect! I would just download this approval email from Tani and include it with a simple memo as I just described in my other email discussing why it was necessary and send that all to puchasingsolicitations@utah.gov with "Emergency Procurement for DAS-Archives" as the subject line.

Thanks!
